Statement of qualifications

Statement of suitability for election to the Board of Directors of the Trust Fund for Victims

With a career in international affairs spanning over thirty years, including over twenty years with the Department of Foreign Affairs, Ambassador Kevin Kelly has the required experience and qualifications to meet the vast majority of the desired competencies for membership of the Trust Fund Board of Directors. Ambassador Kelly's academic studies in University College Dublin and the School of Law in Queens University (both at Masters level), coupled with his hands on engagement over the past five years as Ireland's Ambassador to the Assembly of States Parties of the International Criminal Court in The Hague has deepened his knowledge and understanding of the Rome Statute framework.

He has led and delivered a large range of foreign policy, peace & security, humanitarian and development outcomes at the most senior levels including: Ambassador and Deputy Ambassador in Ireland's bilateral missions in Africa and Europe. His experience as UN Director, as Director for Conflict Resolution and Humanitarian Director in the Department of Foreign Affairs has afforded him practical experience which speaks to most of the requirements of the Board of Directors. Having also held senior management positions in fragile and conflict-affected contexts in Africa with the Irish Government, the World Bank and international NGOs, Mr. Kevin Kelly possesses the requisite institutional experience relevant to the mandates of the Trust Fund for Victims.

Mr. Kevin Kelly was Ambassador to Uganda in 2010 when the first Review Conference on the Rome Statute was held in Kampala, during which Ireland organized a seminar on cooperation with the Court. Kevin Kelly was a member of Ireland's delegation and following the Conference continued to support Uganda's efforts in the field of international criminal justice through Ireland's engagement in the multi-donor capacity building programme for the Justice Law and Order Sector (JLOS).

His experience in Uganda meant that Ambassador Kelly was well placed to take a lead role in The Hague for Ireland in relation to the ICC, building on Ireland's already strong reputation as a supporter of the Court. In conjunction with HQ, it was decided that the rights of victims would become a key priority of Ireland's engagement with the ICC. Ambassador Kelly has engaged with the Trust Fund to sponsor and co-host side events at three Assemblies of States Parties conferences in The Hague.

Under Mr. Kelly's leadership, eleven States Parties to the Rome Statute, along with the President of the Assembly of State Parties, undertook a mission to Northern Uganda between the 19 and 23 February 2018 in order to assess the impact and promote the work of the Trust Fund for Victims. In this year which marked the 20th anniversary of the Rome Statute, Ireland took the initiative to organize the visit in order to promote the Fund but also to help change the narrative of the ICC in Africa. The visit involved meetings in Kampala before travelling to Northern Uganda where tens of thousands of survivors of atrocities committed by the Lord's Resistance Army continue to cope with their physical and psychological injuries.
