Date of Birth:	10 January 1956
Nationality:	Ugandan
Professional Qualification:	Fellow of the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants, UK FCCA Member of the Institute of Certified Public Accountants of Uganda, CPA
Current Status:	Auditor General of Uganda

Key experience

Graduated as a Certified Accountant in December 1979, in Great Britain, and joined the London office of Coopers & Lybrand (now known as PriceWaterhouseCoopers) in February 1980. Obtained extensive international and regional experience having worked with the firm (Coopers & Lybrand) in the London office for two and a half years, seven years in the Zambian office, then thereafter three years with the Lilongwe (Malawi) office. Was a partner with Coopers & Lybrand beginning in 1987 while with the Zambian and Malawi practice. The main tasks were to provide technical direction relating to the audit, company secretarial and taxation affairs of companies in both public and private sectors. The companies included financial institutions, farming estates, parastatal organizations, multinational corporations, local manufacturing and service industries. The responsibilities included ensuring the maintenance of professional, technical and management skills of senior staff and developing appropriate standards of professional work. After I returned to Uganda in 1994 and took up a consultancy assignment on the World Bank project and became attached to the Treasury, my experience broadened to encompass those accounting disciplines and skills pertaining to central and local government. As a consultant on the World Bank project since 1994, I have held line positions within government and headed the portfolio of the Directorate of Accounts, and represented Uganda as the Accountant General internationally. Since 1 January 2001 was appointed the Auditor General of the Republic of Uganda.

Career history

January 2001 to date: Auditor General of Uganda

As the Auditor General of the Republic of Uganda, my responsibilities have mainly been to effectively implement the Constitutional provision of article 163, which requires the audit and annual report on the public accounts of Uganda and all public offices including the courts, the central and local government administrations, universities, public corporations and such bodies as established by an Act of Parliament. The Auditor General is a constitutional office whose appointment is by the President of Uganda with the approval of Parliament and has a staff of 350 people of whom the larger proportion are technical staff spread out over the regional offices in Uganda.

November 1994-31 December 2000

Ministry of Finance, Planning and Economic Development.

Positions:

- International Audit Adviser
- Acting Commissioner/Treasury Officer of Accounts
- Acting Director of Accounts

Since October 1994

Engaged as the Government's Economic and Financial Management Project's International Audit Adviser to the Ministry of Finance, Planning and Economic Development under World Bank IDA Credit No. 2418-UG. Responsible for the establishment of the government internal audit department, which included drawing up its terms of reference, formulating the staff structure and job descriptions, then ultimately the interviewing and placement of staff. An outline for the international audit manual was also prepared.

Effective from March 1996 (still under the World Bank project)

Reassigned to the duties of the Commissioner/Treasury Office of Accounts, and reporting to the Permanent Secretary/Secretary to the Treasury. The tasks have been to ensure the proper management and control of the finances of Uganda and their compliance with the Constitution and the Public Finance Act.

Effective from September 1998 (still under the World Bank project)

Reassigned the duties of the Director of Accounts, of the newly restructured Ministry, and represented Uganda as the Accountant General internally. The departments within the Directorate include Internal Audit, the Treasury Inspectorate and the Treasury Office of Accounts.

November 1993-August 1994

Management Consultant (Audit) Partner, Coopers & Lybrand, Lusaka.

Providing technical direction on audits, which have included, as the engagement partner, Zambia Railways, Zambia National Building Society, African Commercial Bank Limited, Zambia National Commercial Bank and Chibote Meat Corporation Limited. Zambia Railways had gross annual revenues in excess of US$ 25 million per their latest financial statements, and fixed assets in excess of $26 million (ZK 700 = US$ 1.00). Foreign/donor-assisted organizations audited included the Zambia Federation of Employers, the United Church of Zambia and various projects sponsored at the University of Zambia.

June 1990-July 1993

Resident Partner, Coopers & Lybrand, Lilongwe, Malawi.

Technical Direction:

Providing technical direction on audits, company secretarial and taxation affairs of companies. Some significant clients included Investment Trade and Management Corporation (I.T.M.) with a turnover in excess of MK 54 million (MK 7  $\cong$  US\$ 1.00 (June 1993)), Lilongwe Water Board (public utility company with assets in excess of MK 187 million), Maltraco Limited (a subsidiary of I.T.M. involved with dealership distribution of earth-moving equipment and heavy trucks), and WJ & RL Gulliver, involved in road and building construction.

Taxation:

Taxation work included the review of income tax computations and returns prepared on behalf of clients and corresponding with the Department of Taxes to obtain approved assessments; updating, advising and guiding both clients and staff on developments and changes in the taxation legislation.

Receiver:

Acting as the Receiver and Manager of eight tobacco estates in receivership.

Administration:

Attending to staff administration matters while managing the Lilongwe office. Obtaining the correct calibre of technical and professional staff in the right mix, by grade, in order to service the firm's client portfolio in the most effective manner and achieve and maintain the highest professional standards. The comparison of actual time spent on jobs against budgeted time was a key factor in monitoring costs and in the final analysis negotiating and agreeing fees with clients.

Training:

Staff training and development was a constant feature as technical input at the most appropriate time enhanced efficiency and quality of the final product. On-the-job training (field training) during the course of an audit, or assignment, and final review on completion ensured that staff were suitably and constantly monitored and trained at the same time. Participation and presentation of various topics during in-house training courses organized in conjunction with the firm's Blantyre office, assisted staff in the development of their audit, accounting and communication skills, particularly during case studies and role-playing exercises.

Less structured and less formal arrangements were made with individual staff members in guiding them in examination questions and techniques.

June 1989-June 1990

Partner (Audit), Coopers & Lybrand, Lusaka.

A nine-partner office which was departmentalized into audit taxation, management consultancy, liquidation, accounting and company secretarial. As one of the audit partners my major tasks involved providing technical direction on audits and the maintenance of professional standards.

As a member of the firm's national technical committee, extensive involvement was undertaken both in the issuance of auditing and accounting guidelines, and the organization and participation in in-house training courses.

May 1987-June 1989

Partner, Coopers & Lybrand, Kitwe, Zambia.

As a general practice partner, the work I performed encompassed that of auditing, taxation, company secretarial and developing the firm's accounting and secretarial department's role to that of a more broadly based financial services role and renaming the department as Business Services Group.
