THE ROLE OF THE TRUST FUND FOR VICTIMS AND ITS RELATION WITH THE REGISTRY OF THE INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL COURT

For the very first time in history, victims of the most heinous crimes known to humanity have been granted access to an international criminal court to express their views and concerns. Moreover, for the very first time in history a possibility has been created to address the wrongs which have been committed through a claim for reparations against the individual convicted by an international criminal court, including an option to claim restitution, compensation and rehabilitation.

Victims of crimes falling under the jurisdiction of the Court will be able to participate in a manner which is consistent with the rights of the accused and the requirements for fair and impartial trial. The views and concerns of the victims may also be presented by a legal representative at stages where the Court considers it appropriate. The tasks of guaranteeing the rights of victims at the ICC have in a large part been entrusted to the Registry.

The role of the Registry

The Registry is currently developing effective mechanisms to assist victims in participating in all stages of the proceedings and in making claims reparations should that be desired. This assistance includes, inter alia, setting up systems for the processing of victim's applications and obtaining legal representation for victims and facilitating victim's interaction with those legal representatives. The Registry is also in the process of preparing outreach campaigns targeted specifically at victims.

Reparations have the purpose of relieving the suffering and affording justice to victims not only through the conviction of a perpetrator by this Court, but also by attempting to redress the consequences of genocide, crimes against humanity and war crimes, in respect of the victims of that perpetrator. Ultimately, addressing these consequences will provide a more solid basis for re-building societies after mass violence. The existence of the Trust Fund for Victims will help bring this goal closer to realization.

The Registry will assist victims in communicating with the Court by giving sufficient publicity to the proceedings, and, where necessary, providing support in completing the application forms, and processing the forms. Although the final decision regarding reparations lies with the Chambers, the Registry may provide recommendations as to appropriate types and modalities of reparations.

The Trust Fund for Victims

The Trust Fund for Victims (TVF) was established on September 9, 2002, by Resolution of the Assembly of States Parties (ICC-ASP/1/Res.6) pursuant to article 79 of the Rome Statute for the International Criminal Court. In the Annex of Resolution 6, the Assembly of States Parties (ASP) also decided to create a Board of Directors of the Trust Fund.

The Board of Directors of the Trust Fund for Victims

The Trust Fund for Victims is managed by a Board of Directors elected by the Assembly of States Parties for a term of three years and may be re-elected once. They will serve in an individual capacity on a pro bono basis.

The current members of the Board of Directors are:

- H.R.H. Queen Rania Al-Abdullah
- H.E. Dr. Oscar Arias Sánchez
- H.E. Mr. Tadeusz Mazowiecki
- Madame the Minister Simone Veil
- H.G. Archbishop Emeritus Desmond Tutu

Functions of the Trust Fund for Victims

- To act as a vehicle through which reparations orders from the Court can be granted to victims;
- To collect voluntary contributions, fines and forfeitures; and
- To use the resources to benefit victims of crimes within the jurisdiction of the Court and their families.

Collection of Funds

The TFV will collect funds in the following manner:

- Through voluntary contributions from governments, organisations and individuals, so long as these do not violate the spirit of the Fund;
- From funds collected through fines or forfeitures ordered by the Court; and
- From other fund allocated by the ASP.

Amount of Reparations

The judges of the ICC will determine the amount and form of a reparation order for the victims. But the Trust Fund plays an important role in the granting of reparations awards to victims in the case of collective awards or a large number of individual awards, where direct transfer to beneficiaries is “impossible or impracticable.” Where this is the case, the Court may order that a reparations award be deposited with the Trust Fund for Victims.
