The Embassy of the Democratic Republic of the Congo in The Hague presents its compliments to the Secretariat of the Assembly of States Parties to the Rome Statute and, with reference to note verbale ICC-ASP/25/SP/01/Corr.2 dated 16 December 2025, has the honour to inform it that the Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo has decided to nominate Mr Ezéchiél Amani Cirimwami, a national of the Democratic Republic of the Congo, for the position of judge of the International Criminal Court under List B, for the 2027–2036 term of office, at the elections to be held during the twenty-fifth session of the Assembly of States Parties, scheduled to take place in New York in December 2026.

The Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo certifies that Mr Cirimwami fully satisfies the requirements set forth in article 36, paragraph 3, of the Statute. He possesses recognized competence in international law, particularly international human rights law, international humanitarian law and international criminal law, as well as substantial professional experience relevant to the judicial functions of the Court.

Holding two doctorates in law and serving as a professor of international law, Mr Cirimwami has extensive expertise in the legal and procedural mechanisms applicable to international crimes, together with significant experience in international litigation, acquired notably through proceedings before the International Court of Justice, the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea (ITLOS) and the African Court on Human and Peoples' Rights.

Although nominated under List B, his nomination is notable for his direct experience in criminal law and criminal procedure acquired through the exercise of judicial and prosecutorial functions, thereby providing him with an in-depth understanding of the evidentiary and procedural requirements at the core of the Court's mandate.

The nomination of Mr Cirimwami reflects the steadfast commitment of the Democratic Republic of the Congo to strengthening international criminal justice, combating impunity and upholding the rule of law at the international level.

The Government of the Democratic Republic of the Congo is convinced that Mr Cirimwami's experience, competence and integrity will enable him to make a significant contribution to the work of the Court, particularly in the adjudication of complex cases involving evidentiary and procedural issues.

The Democratic Republic of the Congo reaffirms its commitment to the Rome Statute system and to the promotion of an independent, impartial and effective system of international criminal justice.

This note verbale is accompanied, for the purposes of the present nomination, by the nominee's curriculum vitae and statement of qualifications, in accordance with the stipulations of article 36 of the Rome Statute.

Statement of qualifications

This statement is submitted pursuant to paragraph 4 (a) of article 36 of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court. The Democratic Republic of the Congo has the honour to present the nomination of Mr Ezéchiél Amani Cirimwami, a national of the Democratic Republic of the Congo, for election as a judge of the Court. The nomination of Mr Cirimwami was carried out in accordance with the procedure applicable in the Democratic Republic of the Congo for the designation of nominees to the highest judicial offices, in conformity with paragraph 4 (a) of article 36 of the Rome Statute.

Mr. Cirimwami enjoys established high moral character, impartiality and integrity, and fulfils the conditions required for appointment to the highest judicial offices in his State. His professional career is distinguished by a rare and integrated combination of judicial functions, prosecutorial practice and international litigation, supported by a sustained academic commitment to international law.

He is being nominated for inclusion in List B and is based on an established competence in international law, particularly international human rights law, international humanitarian law and international criminal law, whilst also being notable for his direct and substantial experience in criminal law and criminal procedure.

In his capacity as a judge, Mr. Cirimwami has adjudicated complex criminal cases involving the assessment of the admissibility and probative value of evidence, the evaluation of conflicting testimony and the safeguarding of the rights of the defence, including in cases requiring particularly careful management of evidentiary material and witness credibility.

In his capacity as a prosecutor, he directed investigations concerning serious human rights violations, notably in contexts involving complex evidentiary assessments, sensitive witness testimony and the prosecution of serious international crimes. He thereby acquired practical experience in the management of complex evidentiary records and witness-related issues in challenging contexts.

Mr. Cirimwami also possesses extensive experience in international litigation. He appears as counsel before several international jurisdictions, notably the International Court of Justice, the International Tribunal for the Law of the Sea and the African Court on Human and Peoples' Rights, in cases in relation to serious violations of international law, including allegations of genocide and other international crimes. This practice has enabled him to develop a thorough expertise in complex evidentiary and procedural issues arising in international adjudication.

His profile is further strengthened by his engagement with the procedural foundations of international justice. He served as a researcher at the Max Planck Institute Luxembourg for Procedural Law and as Associate Editor of the Max Planck Encyclopedia of International Procedural Law, contributing to one of the leading reference works in this field.

Mr. Cirimwami is Associate Professor of International Law at the Vrije Universiteit Brussel (VUB), Visiting Professor of International Humanitarian Law at the Catholic University of Louvain, and Visiting Professor of Human Rights and Military Operations at the Royal Military Academy of Belgium. Holding two doctorates in law, his research notably focuses on the prosecution of international crimes and the procedural dynamics of international adjudication.

Mr. Cirimwami has also contributed to international efforts aimed at strengthening the fight against impunity for international crimes, notably through his participation, as plenipotentiary delegate and member of the legal drafting committee, in the Ljubljana Diplomatic Conference that led to the adoption of the Ljubljana–The Hague Convention on International Cooperation in the Investigation and Prosecution of the Crime of Genocide, Crimes against Humanity, War Crimes and Other International Crimes. In that capacity, he was directly involved in the drafting of provisions relating to jurisdiction, mutual legal assistance and extradition.

His approach to judicial office is guided by the need to ensure the highest standards of evidentiary rigour, strict respect for procedural guarantees and a careful balance between the rights of the defence and the interests of victims, including in cases involving vulnerable witnesses and complex factual situations. He considers that the legitimacy of the Court rests upon the quality and coherence of its legal reasoning.

Having been trained in a civil law legal system and possessing experience in international and comparative law, Mr. Cirimwami is in a strong position to contribute effectively to the work of the Court within a pluralistic legal environment. He is fluent in French and English and undertakes to be available to take up his full-time service. He boasts a judicial profile combining practical criminal law experience with profound procedural expertise, enabling him to contribute to the work of the Court with clarity, rigour and authority in the adjudication of complex cases.

Judge L. Kyshakevych possesses recognized competence in criminal and procedural law, as well as extensive experience as a judge and prosecutor.

L. Kyshakevych has over thirty years of professional experience in the field of criminal law and procedure. Specifically, he has served in the prosecution authorities of Ukraine, conducting public prosecutions in criminal cases, served as a judge of the local court and of the Criminal Cassation Court within the Supreme Court. Currently, L. Kyshakevych holds the position of the judge of the Grand Chamber of the Supreme Court, by participating in the development of the Supreme Court's binding legal positions, which confirms the candidate's highest level of competence in criminal law and procedure.

In 2024, Judge L. Kyshakevych authored a judgment of the Grand Chamber of the Supreme Court in criminal proceedings against individuals convicted of crimes related to the planning, preparation, initiation, and waging of a war of aggression. This judgment set a judicial precedent for cases involving crimes against peace, human security, and the international legal order. Its preparation required profound knowledge of national law as well as international criminal law, international humanitarian law, and the case law of international tribunals. This demonstrates Judge L. Kyshakevych's expertise in legal matters falling within the subject-matter jurisdiction of the ICC, particularly regarding the crime of aggression and related international legal assessments. Furthermore, Judge L. Kyshakevych's work on this judgment demonstrates his ability to objectively assess and analyze acts that pose a threat to international peace and security, to apply the norms of international humanitarian law and international criminal law, and to formulate legal conclusions in cases of exceptional public and international significance.

Judge L. Kyshakevych is the Chair of the Ethics Council, an independent body whose primary task is to determine whether candidates for the position of a member of the High Council of Justice (HCJ) meet the criteria of professional ethics and integrity. According to the Law of Ukraine "On the High Council of Justice", members of the Ethics Council shall be individuals of impeccable professional reputation, high professional and moral standing, and public authority, who satisfy the criteria of professional ethics and integrity. The election of L. Kyshakevych as Chair of the Ethics Council serves as additional confirmation of his highest moral standards and integrity.

The activities of Judge L. Kyshakevych within the Ethics Council are directly related to the assessment of standards of independence, impartiality, integrity, resilience to external influence, and the ability to act in accordance with the principle of the rule of law. For an ICC judge, such experience is essential, as international criminal justice requires not only high legal training but also an impeccable professional reputation and the ability to render decisions in politically sensitive cases while maintaining trust in the court as an institution.

The aforementioned competencies demonstrate Judge L. Kyshakevych's proven track record of successful collegial work, which is an essential prerequisite for the effective exercise of a judge's duties in any court, including the International Criminal Court. L. Kyshakevych's professional activities in the Criminal Cassation Court and the Grand Chamber of the Supreme Court involve daily cooperation with other judges on resolving complex legal issues and rendering collegial decisions. His duties as Chair of the Ethics Council involve cooperation with Council members, including international experts. This experience demonstrates his ability to work in a team, consider diverse legal positions, reach balanced joint decisions, and work in an atmosphere of mutual respect, impartiality and shared responsibility.

Holding the position of Head of the Court further demonstrates Judge L. Kyshakevych's organizational experience, ability to ensure the proper functioning of a judicial institution and the efficiency of court procedures. This is significant for the International Criminal Court, as proceedings involving war crimes, crimes against humanity, genocide, or the crime of aggression require not only high-level legal analysis but also efficient management.

Thus, Judge L. Kyshakevych's professional legal experience meets the requirements for a candidate defined by article 36, paragraph 3 of the Rome Statute, as it encompasses many years of experience in the field of criminal justice, the adjudication of complex criminal cases, the application of international standards of justice, participation in the development of legal positions related to crimes against the peace and security of mankind and international legal order, as well as experience in upholding professional ethics, independence, and integrity in the administration of justice. Taken together, this experience demonstrates that Judge L. Kyshakevych is suitably qualified to administer justice in cases falling within the jurisdiction of the International Criminal Court.

Judge L. Kyshakevych's professional experience is further reinforced by his academic qualifications, holding a Candidate of Legal Sciences degree (PhD in Law). He consistently advances his professional expertise, participates in scientific-practical conferences and professional events addressing contemporary issues of international criminal law, and has undertaken multiple working visits to the International Criminal Court in The Hague. This demonstrates the systematic nature and relevance of knowledge of Judge L. Kyshakevych's of international criminal justice and his suitability to international judicial setting.

Judge L. Kyshakevych is fluent in English and experienced in using it in his professional activities.

(b) Nomination of candidates from the lists provided for in article 36, paragraph 5 of the Rome Statute

Taking into account the extensive experience as a judge and his expertise in criminal law and procedure, Judge L. Kyshakevych is nominated as a candidate on List A.

(c) Information relating to article 36, paragraph 8 (a)(i) to (iii) of the Rome Statute

Judge L. Kyshakevych will represent the civil law legal system and is a male candidate of Ukraine, a member of the Eastern European Region.

(d) Information on legal experience pursuant to article 36, paragraph 8 (b) of the Rome Statute

Judge L. Kyshakevych has over thirty years of professional experience in the field of criminal justice, encompassing work in the prosecution authorities and the courts. This experience is directly relevant to the performance of the duties of a judge of the International Criminal Court, as it combines the practice of criminal prosecution, the adjudication of complex criminal proceedings—particularly those involving violence against women and children—the application of international standards of fair trial, and work on legal issues related to crimes against peace, security of mankind, and the international legal order.

From 1995 to 2004, L. Kyshakevych served in Ukrainian prosecution authorities, where his work was directly related to the practical application of criminal law and criminal procedural law, supporting the prosecution, preparing procedural documents, analysing materials from criminal proceedings, supporting the public prosecution, and ensuring legality at the pre-trial and trial stages. Judge L. Kyshakevych's experience is important for the work of a judge at the International Criminal Court, as cases falling within the Court's jurisdiction require the evaluation of a large body of evidence and procedural decisions by investigative authorities and the prosecutor, as well as maintaining a balance between the effectiveness of criminal prosecution and the guarantees of a fair trial.

With over 20 years of judicial experience, Lev Kyshakevych has directly administered justice in criminal proceedings, including those involving violence against women and children; examined evidence; evaluated the testimony of parties to the proceedings; rendered decisions on a person's guilt or innocence and the imposition of punishment; and ensured compliance with the procedural rights of the parties. Serving as a trial judge is of particular importance for the training of a judge at the International Criminal Court, as it is at this level that practical skills are developed in handling oral and written evidence, assessing the credibility of testimony, responding to procedural motions filed by the parties, and ensuring the equality of the parties and the immediacy of the trial.

The role of a judge on the Criminal Cassation Chamber of the Supreme Court involves a thorough analysis of complex legal issues, ensuring consistency in judicial practice, assessing significant violations of the right to defense, standards of admissibility of evidences, the reasonableness of judicial decisions, and the compliance of national law enforcement with international standards. It is precisely this level of work that is particularly closely aligned with the duties of an international criminal judge, who, in cases involving the most serious international crimes, must ensure a high standard of reasoning, accuracy in legal classification, and strict observance of the rights of the accused and victims.

As a member of the Grand Chamber of the Supreme Court of Ukraine, Judge L. Kyshakevych contributes to the development of uniform judicial practice and the resolution of the most complex legal issues arising at the intersection of criminal law, criminal procedure, constitutional guarantees, and the state's international obligations. It is particularly important that, in criminal jurisdiction, the Grand Chamber of the Supreme Court reviews court decisions after an international judicial body—whose jurisdiction is recognized by Ukraine—has established that Ukraine violated its international obligations in the court's adjudication of the case. Thus, L. Kyshakevych's work in the Grand Chamber of the Supreme Court is directly linked to the application of international standards of justice, the practice of the European Court of Human Rights, and the harmonization of national law enforcement with international standards. For an ICC Judge, this experience is particularly valuable, as the work of an international court requires the ability to combine different legal traditions, interpret international norms in the context of specific criminal proceedings, and formulate persuasive legal positions in highly complex cases.

(e) Information on the candidate's nationality for the purposes of article 36, paragraph 7 of the Statute

Judge L. Kyshakevych is a citizen of Ukraine and holds no other nationality.

(f) The nomination procedure in accordance with article 36, paragraph 4 (a)(ii) of the Rome Statute

The Selection Commission consists of renowned experts in the fields of criminal law, criminal procedure, and international law, who possess high moral character, professional qualifications, and significant experience in their respective fields. The candidates for the selection commission were recommended to the President of Ukraine by the Office of the Prosecutor General, the High Council of Justice, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Ukraine, and the Ministry of Justice of Ukraine.

Detailed information regarding the national procedure is provided separately.

(g) Confirmation of the information provided regarding the requirements set forth in article 36, paragraphs 3 (a), (b), (c), and 4(a) of the Rome Statute

The accuracy and truthfulness of the information provided regarding the requirements set forth in article 36, paragraphs 3 (a), (b), (c), and 4 (a) of the Rome Statute have been confirmed by the Chair of the National Selection Commission, Professor Mykhailo Buromenskyi.

(h) Candidate's obligations

7. MUZIGO-MORRISON, Rosette (Uganda)

[Original: English]

Note verbale

The Embassy of the Republic of Uganda to the Kingdom of Belgium, the Kingdom of the Netherlands, the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg and Permanent Mission to the European Union presents its compliments to the Secretariat of the Assembly of States Parties with reference to the latter's note ICC-ASP/25/SP/01/Corr.2 dated 16 December 2025.

The Embassy has the honour to inform the Secretariat that the Government of the Republic of Uganda hereby nominates Ms Rosette Muzigo-Morrison as a candidate for election as a judge of the International Criminal Court at the elections to be held during the twenty-fifth session of the Assembly in New York, from 7 to 17 December 2026.

The Embassy has the honour to attach to this note a statement prepared in accordance with article 36, paragraph 4(a), of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court and paragraph 6 of the resolution of the Assembly of States Parties on the procedure for the nomination and election of judges of the Court (ICC-ASP/3/Res.6, as amended) and Ms Muzigo-Morrison's curriculum vitae.

Statement of qualifications

The Government of the Republic of Uganda hereby submits this "Statement of qualifications for the nominated candidate, pursuant to article 36, paragraph 4 (a), of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court and paragraph 6 of the resolution of the Assembly of States Parties on the procedure for the nomination and election of judges of the Court (ICC-ASP/3/Res.6, as amended)".

(a) Procedure for nomination

Uganda followed the procedure for appointing to the highest judicial offices in Uganda, as outlined below, to nominate Ms Rosette Muzigo-Morrison. This is consistent with the requirements specified under article 36, paragraph 4(a)(i), of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court. The process entails constituting a selection panel of members of the Judicial Service Commission, making a recommendation to the appointing authority, the Head of State, who makes appointments to the highest judicial offices.

In this regard, a selection panel comprised of the Minister of Justice and Constitutional Affairs, a representative of the Attorney General's Chambers (the Deputy Attorney General), who sits on the Judicial Services Commission, the body mandated to make judicial appointments, and a representative of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (this being an international appointment) was established. The Panel received expressions of interest from five applicants between November 2024 and May 2025.

Following a review of all five candidates' credentials, based on the criteria of article 36, the Panel determined that Ms Muzigo-Morrison possesses the requisite international criminal law practice of over thirty years at the international level. In particular, she has the all round international practice in prosecution, judicial, and registry work, and accordingly, Uganda's best-suited candidate.

The Ministry of Justice made a recommendation to the appointing authority for the highest judicial office in the Country, namely, the Head of State.

The President endorsed the panel's recommendation in October 2025.

(b) Criteria of high moral character, impartiality and integrity

Ms Muzigo-Morrison is a person of high moral character, integrity, and impartiality. In 2023, Ms Muzigo-Morrison successfully completed the Court's vetting process for election to the position of Registrar, and nothing has changed about her since that vetting. She is therefore a candidate who has already been through vetting for a high-level appointment at the Court.

(c) Possession of the qualifications required for appointment to the highest judicial offices at the national level

Ms Muzigo-Morrison possesses the academic qualifications and practical expertise for appointment to the highest judicial offices at the national level. She holds a Bachelor of Laws degree, two master's degrees and is completing a PhD in international human rights law. Additionally, she has over thirty years of criminal law practice.

(i) Prosecution experience

2016-2021 – Office of the Prosecutor, Legal Advisory Section/Operations Officer; International Criminal Court

Among other roles, she applied legal expertise to analyse draft briefs and memoranda, provided legal advice in relation to filings, conducted legal research/investigations, and drafted position papers related to emerging complex issues, prepared conference papers and represented the Prosecutor, drafted oral and written briefs/presentations that were delivered by ICC staff at the United Nations, and delivered lectures to universities, groups, and visiting experts, including representing the office as an Expert on the rule of law legal round table organised by NATO in 2019.

Additionally, Ms Muzigo-Morrison coordinated the implementation of the policies on sexual and gender-based crimes, and the policy of crimes against and affecting children between 2019 and 2021. It was her responsibility to ensure that all Prosecution Teams paid particular attention to these crimes at all stages of the office's work.

1995-1997 – International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda; as an Investigator and Legal Officer Ms Muzigo-Morrison was part of the pioneer Trial Team that arrived in Rwanda to investigate genocide and other serious violations of international humanitarian law committed in Rwanda in 1994. Her role in investigating, preparing the indictment, and defending it before the confirmation Judge in the Prosecutor vs. Jean Paul Akayesu, the first case to convict rape as an element of genocide, is particularly noteworthy. Ms Muzigo-Morrison also led the investigations, preparation of the indictment, and its confirmation and the confirmation hearing in the Prosecutor vs. Georges Anderson Rutaganda. She led the selection of Prosecution witnesses and appeared for the Prosecutor. She was on the Butare files, particularly, in the preparation of the indictment of The Prosecutor vs Higaniro.

1995 February-July – International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia as a Fellow/Intern

Ms Muzigo-Morrison served in the Legal Advisory Section. In addition to conducting groundbreaking research on the classification of conflicts and the nexus of internationality, she was part of the Teams in the Duško Tadić case and The Prosecutor v. Dragan Nikolic case.

(ii) Judicial experience

2012-2015 – As a Legal Officer, Appeals Chamber, International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda Ms Muzigo-Morrison supported the work of the Judges and was involved in the deliberations, the preparation of decisions, orders, and judgments. She was part of the Team that drafted the Augustin Ndindiliyimana, François-Xavier Nzuwonemeye, and Innocent Sagahutu Vs. The Prosecutor. Additionally, Ms Muzigo-Morrison regularly filled in for ICTR Judges' Legal Officers when needed.

2005-2015 – Presiding Officer, Rule 33 B (Depositions); As Presiding Officer, Rule 33B bis International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda.

In 2005, Ms Muzigo-Morrison was appointed Presiding Officer for all hearings on the certification of witness testimony across Europe, the United States of America, and Canada. This entailed travelling to all locations where witnesses were located and presiding over the certification of their depositions in the presence of both the Prosecution and the Defence. The role imparted skills and experience in presiding over and managing hearings, which are vital for a judge.

(iii) Registrar experience

2000-2015 – As Registrar’s Representative - International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda

Having earlier on served as an Assistant to the Registrar, at the time when the Duty Stations of Rwanda (UNAMIR, under which the Tribunal operated initially had completed its mandate) and Arusha, Tanzania, were established, Ms Muzigo-Morrison was designated as the Representative of the Registrar to establish a Rwanda Tribunal Office in The Hague.

With the experience of pioneering the establishment of the first witnesses/victims support and protection section in international criminal justice, Ms Muzigo-Morrison’s experience was key to all registry functions, but particularly with the management, support and protection of persons of interest to the Tribunal. Her role included providing strategic advice and guidance to the Registrar on all services relating to witnesses and victims, and appearing for the Registrar. She established policies and created standard operating procedures for protocols related to the management, support, and protection of witnesses. She defined witnesses/victims’ rights, which included specifying their benefits and defining the responsibilities of witnesses and victims, before, during, and after testimony. The protocols pioneered culminated in the establishment of policies that translated international provisions of human rights instruments to practical application, for the benefit of witnesses and victims. These protocols and policies have since been adopted in all international tribunals and the Court.

2006-2008 – Special Court for Sierra Leone

The decision to conduct the highly publicised and sensitive trial of former Liberian President Charles Taylor in The Hague required an experienced representative of the Registrar. Ms Muzigo-Morrison was loaned from the Rwanda Tribunal to the Special Court for Sierra Leone to assume this role, demonstrating the United Nation’s Office of Legal Affairs’ recognition of her experience in Registry matters. Ms Muzigo-Morrison liaised with Host Country authorities and spearheaded negotiations to establish cooperation protocols/agreements for the management and movement of witnesses and victims across continents. This meant overcoming challenges, including obtaining immigration waivers and ensuring the provision of protection for safe houses and for movements to and from the Court. This insight of incorporating cultural diversity, gender mainstreaming, incorporating mechanisms to support victims with special needs, victims of sexual and gender based crimes, and witnesses who were children at the time the crimes were committed, has a direct impact on the trials. A judge who has benefited from being part of the process of building mechanisms to protect and support victims will be an asset to the bench.

Experience working with accused persons, the defence and their families; As a Registrar’s representative for seventeen years, Ms Muzigo-Morrison had the rare privilege of working directly with accused persons, defence teams, establishing mechanisms for the implementation of defence rights, liaison with their families, especially when family members had to give evidence. For example, time with the families of three former heads of state gave her a rare insight into defence cases, which we believe is important, and helped her appreciate the challenges faced by all parties in international criminal justice.

(e) Knowledge of and fluency in either English or French

Ms Muzigo-Morrison is a native English speaker and has received all her education in English. She is at the B1 level of French.

For the purposes of article 36, paragraph 8(a)(i) to (iii), of the Rome Statute, Ms Muzigo-Morrison received her education from Uganda, the United States of America, and the Republic of Ireland. That would make her more inclined towards the Common law system. However, having practised international criminal law with the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia, the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda, the Special Court for Sierra Leone, and the ICC, she is well versed in both the civil law and common law systems.

(h) Gender and Regional Group

(i) Legal expertise on specific issues, including, but not limited to, violence against women or children

In addition to being part of the Prosecution Team for the first case to convict rape as an element of genocide, Ms Muzigo-Morrison has, since 2009 to date, served as a UN Women/Justice Rapid Response Expert. In that regard, she is a roster member for investigating and prosecuting conflict-related sexual and gender-based violence. She has been deployed as an Investigator in Libya and as a Witness/Victims' Support Expert in Rwanda.

Ms Muzigo is also an expert in investigating allegations of Sexual Abuse and exploitation, bullying, harassment, including sexual harassment and misconduct. She was deployed to Rwanda and the Democratic Republic of Congo for the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees. She has also been deployed as a Protection Expert and has established a programme to support, protect, and advocate for Witnesses/Victims/Whistleblowers.

Since 2019, she has served as an expert and Trainer of Trainers in recognising, investigating, and prosecuting sexual and gender based crimes and crimes against or affecting children for NATO. She has, in this regard, contributed to a manual for training NATO service personnel deployed in crisis situations. The manual was published in 2021. (k) Commitment to take up full-time service

Ms Muzigo is dedicated to being available to assume the role of Judge at the ICC, full-time, when the Court's workload requires her service.

Mazima Community Development Initiative

Director

I spearheaded the establishing of a comprehensive, survivor-centred programme to respond to documented increase of cases of domestic violence, sexual and gender-based violence, sexual exploitation and abuse, which significantly increased during the almost two years of lockdown of the COVID-19 pandemic, when all schools in Uganda were closed. The Busoga region, our operational area, was particularly adversely affected with reports of teen pregnancies and early marriages.

As one of the Directors, I lead a Team to manage a programme that aims at providing confidential clinical and psychosocial care and trauma-informed counselling, community protection referrals, and prevention awareness campaigns. The beneficiaries are brought to the centre for twelve months.

The programme also aims at increasing meaningful participation in formal, and informal activities for girls, teen mothers, women and other marginalized groups. We aim to improve their wellbeing through vocational training and we offer pre-school training for the children of the teen mothers and children from the surrounding community. The Training empowers women's participation in decision-making roles, income generating activities, planning, women's economic empowerment, and the establishment of gender-responsive institutions to sexual and gender-based violence. We have special cases of families of "working teen mothers" rescued from the "streets" and supported to redefine their life goals and empowered to financially support their families.

The programme employs sustainable mechanisms for ending impunity of domestic sexual and gender-based violence, while promoting a gender-sensitive approach to preventing and countering crime and violent extremism.

In 2025, we incorporated vulnerable boys into the programme with the admission of an initial a hundred boys. They are equipped with vocational skills to assist them earn a living when they graduate from the programme. In addition to serving as a Director, I am also the Company Secretary for the Organisation. In this capacity, I have appeared for the organisation in criminal cases. As a Judge of the Supreme Court of Kenya, the country's apex court with final appellate jurisdiction over criminal matters, Judge Njoki S. Ndungu has, for over fifteen years, participated in and authored landmark judicial opinions that have significantly shaped Kenya's criminal jurisprudence. Her decisions have addressed complex issues including fair trial rights, the admissibility and evaluation of evidence, legality and proportionality of sentences, the protection of constitutional rights of accused persons, and the meaningful participation of victims in criminal proceedings. Through her jurisprudence, Judge Njoki S. Ndungu has contributed to the development of a victim-centred and constitutionally grounded criminal justice framework in Kenya.

She also served as State Counsel in the Office of the Attorney General (then incorporating the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions), where she advised on and prosecuted serious criminal offences, including capital offences. Judge Njoki S. Ndungu has trained judges, prosecutors, investigators, and justice sector actors on the interpretation and application of sexual offences law, including complex issues relating to evidentiary standards, admissibility of evidence, consent, survivor protection, and the prosecution of sexual violence in conflict and post-conflict settings. Through these engagements, she has contributed to strengthening the ability of justice systems to respond effectively to sexual and gender-based crimes.

Taken together, Judge Njoki S. Pursuant to that provision, the President shall appoint judges, "in accordance with the recommendation of the judicial service commission."

The Chief Justice of the Republic of Kenya, after receiving notification from the Attorney-General informed all judges of the upcoming election of judges to the International Criminal Court and invited applications for expressions of interest. A total of three candidates including Judge Njoki S. Ndungu expressed their interest and the Chief Justice forwarded their names to the Judicial Service Commission for determination of suitability. Upon consideration of the three candidates who had expressed interest, and having found them all suitable, the Judicial Service Commission recommended the names of the three candidates to the President of the Republic of Kenya. The President, in exercise of his powers under the Constitution, then nominated Judge Njoki S. Ndungu as Kenya's candidate for election as a judge of the International Criminal Court.

(e) Legal expertise on specific issues including but not limited to violence against women and children (article 36, paragraph 8 (b))

Judge Njoki S. Ndungu is widely recognised for her extensive expertise in the legal and institutional responses to violence against women and children and other gender-based crimes, developed through more than three decades of work across the judiciary, legislative institutions, international organisations, and humanitarian bodies. Her career has been marked by sustained leadership in advancing legal frameworks, institutional reforms, and judicial approaches that strengthen accountability for sexual and gender-based violence, enhance the protection of victims and vulnerable populations, and promote survivor-centred justice. Through her contributions at the national, regional, and international levels, she has developed specialised competence in issues that lie at the heart of the mandate of the International Criminal Court, including crimes involving sexual violence recognised under articles 7 and 8 of the Rome Statute, as well as the protection of victims, witnesses, and displaced populations.

Over the course of more than three decades, Judge Njoki S. Ndungu has developed deep and internationally recognised expertise in addressing violence against women and children, gender-based crimes, and the protection of vulnerable populations through her work in civil society, national and regional legislatures, international organisations, humanitarian institutions, and the Judiciary of Kenya. Across these roles, she has consistently led legal and institutional reforms addressing violence against women and children while advancing the protection of refugees, displaced persons, and other vulnerable groups.

Her work has focused on strengthening legal and institutional responses to sexual and gender-based violence including crimes such as rape, sexual slavery, forced pregnancy, enforced prostitution, and other forms of sexual violence, which are recognised under articles 7 and 8 of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court as crimes against humanity and war crimes. Judge Njoki S. Ndungu has developed expertise in procedural and evidentiary standards in sexual offences cases, survivor-centred approaches to justice, victim participation in criminal proceedings, and mechanisms for victim protection and reparations for survivors of gender-based crimes.

Her leadership in legislative reform addressing sexual violence is widely recognised. As a Member of Parliament in Kenya, she championed key legislative initiatives aimed at strengthening legal protections for women and children against sexual violence. In 2004, she moved the motion adopted by Parliament supporting the ratification of the International Conference on the Great Lakes Region Protocol on the Prevention and Suppression of Sexual Violence Against Women and Children, reinforcing Kenya's commitment to regional accountability frameworks addressing sexual violence.

In 2006, Judge Njoki S. Ndungu sponsored and successfully steered through the Kenyan Parliament, the Sexual Offences Act, 2006, one of the most consequential legislative reforms in Kenya's criminal justice system. The Act established a comprehensive legal framework addressing sexual violence, strengthened evidentiary standards, expanded definitions of sexual offences, enhanced protections for survivors and vulnerable witnesses, and introduced stronger penalties for perpetrators. The legislation significantly strengthened access to justice for survivors of sexual violence and has informed legal reform and judicial training initiatives across Africa.

In addition, she introduced amendments to employment legislation aimed at strengthening protections for working families, including provisions introducing maternity and paternity leave benefits, further advancing gender equality and social protection for vulnerable groups.

Judge Njoki S. Ndungu's expertise in gender justice also has a strong regional dimension. While serving with the African Union's Conflict Management Centre, she played a leading role in processes relating to the development of the Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights on the Rights of Women in Africa (Maputo Protocol). This landmark regional instrument established robust legal protections against gender-based violence, discrimination, and harmful practices affecting women across the African continent.

Her mandate within the African Union also involved analysing preventive mechanisms for addressing human rights violations in conflict and post-conflict situations and integrating rights-based approaches within peace processes across the continent. This work strengthened her expertise in addressing conflict-related sexual violence and promoting accountability for serious human rights violations occurring in conflict settings.

Judge Njoki S. Ndungu's expertise in the protection of vulnerable populations is further informed by her humanitarian work. As National Protection Officer with the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), she worked on refugee protection law and refugee status determination while also leading initiatives addressing gender-based violence in refugee settings. Her work included training judicial officers, humanitarian personnel, and refugee communities on preventive measures and protective responses to sexual violence within refugee camps.

Her work with civil society organisations also addressed issues relating to abductions, trafficking, slavery, and the protection of child soldiers, including the development of human-rights-based programming for displaced populations and refugees. These engagements provided practical exposure to the intersection between humanitarian protection, armed conflict, and gender-based violence, areas that are directly relevant to the work of the International Criminal Court.

Judge Njoki S. Ndungu also played an important role in the broader accountability discourse following Kenya's 2007–2008 post-election violence, during which widespread atrocities, including sexual violence against women and children, were documented. In this context, she was a strong advocate for the development of institutional mechanisms capable of addressing international crimes. In particular, she supported the establishment of the International Crimes Division of the High Court of Kenya, envisioned as a specialised judicial mechanism to prosecute international crimes, including crimes against humanity and conflict-related sexual violence.

During this period, she also engaged in international advocacy to raise awareness of the atrocities committed during the violence, including delivering a congressional address in the United States highlighting the devastating impact of the violence on women and children and emphasising the importance of justice, accountability, and institutional reform.

Her judicial service has further consolidated this expertise. As a Judge of the Supreme Court of Kenya, the country's apex court with final appellate jurisdiction over criminal matters, she has contributed to the development of indigenous jurisprudence relating to victim participation in criminal proceedings, interpretation of fair trial rights, evidentiary standards in criminal trials, and the legality of criminal convictions and sentences.

In this role, she regularly engages with complex factual records, applies advanced legal reasoning, and safeguards due process while maintaining the delicate balance between the rights of accused persons and the imperatives of survivor- and victim-centred justice, responsibilities that closely mirror the adjudicative functions of the International Criminal Court.

Judge Njoki S. Ndungu's expertise in sexual and gender-based violence has also been recognised internationally through her extensive work in capacity-building and advisory roles with United Nations agencies, including UN Women, UNFPA, UNDP, UNICEF and IPPF, where she has trained justice sector actors and advised governments across multiple African countries on strengthening legal responses to gender-based violence and improving institutional frameworks for survivor protection and accountability.

Through her legislative leadership, humanitarian engagement, regional legal work, judicial service, and international advocacy, Judge Njoki S. Ndungu has earned global recognition as a leading expert on violence against women and children and the protection of vulnerable populations. Her experience demonstrates strong competence on issues that lie at the core of the mandate of the International Criminal Court under article 36(8)(b) of the Rome Statute, particularly in relation to sexual and gender-based crimes, victim protection, reparations, and accountability for serious violations of international law.

Judge Njoki S. Ndungu has also provided important institutional leadership within the Judiciary of Kenya in areas closely linked to constitutional governance and public confidence in the justice system. As Chairperson of the Judiciary Committee on Elections (JCE), she has overseen the development of specialised training curricula and capacity-building programmes to prepare judges to hear and determine election petitions. Through this work, she has contributed to strengthening the Judiciary's institutional preparedness to adjudicate electoral disputes in a manner that safeguards constitutional order, enhances public confidence in electoral justice, and promotes peace and stability during electoral cycles.

She also serves as Chairperson of the Judiciary Employee Protection and Inclusivity Committee (EPIC), the first committee of its kind within the Judiciary mandated to oversee the implementation of policies protecting judicial officers and staff from sexual harassment while promoting dignity, equality, and inclusivity within the institution. Through this role, she has contributed to strengthening internal accountability frameworks and fostering a safe and respectful working environment within the justice sector.

Overall, Judge Njoki S. Ndungu's extensive experience in criminal law, legislative reform, gender justice, humanitarian protection, and judicial leadership demonstrates a profound commitment to accountability, the protection of vulnerable populations, and the advancement of victim-centred justice. Her work across national, regional, and international institutions reflects deep engagement with the legal and institutional challenges associated with prosecuting serious crimes, including sexual and gender-based violence and other violations recognised under international criminal law. These experiences collectively demonstrate strong competence in areas that lie at the core of the mandate of the International Criminal Court, particularly in relation to the prosecution and adjudication of crimes affecting women, children, and other vulnerable groups.

Judge Njoki S. Ndungu is committed to take up full-time service when the Court's workload so requires.

The Supreme Court of Kenya is the Apex Court in Kenya and one of the Africa’s leading courts in development of indigenous jurisprudence. As a Judge in the Court, which has the final appellate jurisdiction over all cases including criminal matters, I have had the chance to engage in precedent setting interpretation of fair trial rights, evidentiary standards and requirements, and determining legality of criminal convictions. Just like the ICC the position has demanded a mastery of complex factual records, advanced legal reasoning, protection of due process, and maintaining the delicate balance of rights of accused persons with survivor/victim-centred justice. The high-level leadership positions within the Supreme Court and the Judiciary generally have provided an opportunity to contribute to judicial ethics, institutional accountability, protection of judicial independence, management of complex procedural issues and adjudicative frameworks, victim-centred justice, and access to justice principles. These experiences are directly relevant to the criminal and appellate processes of the International Criminal Court.
-	Employer:	Government of Kenya
-	Post title:	Expert, National Committee of Experts on Constitution Review in Kenya
-	Other information:	The Committee of Experts was one of the mechanisms established under Agenda 4, a peace process that established a government of national unity in Kenya through the mediation and supervised coalition agreement under Koffi Annan, after the Post-Election Violence in Kenya in 2008. Its mandate was to redesign the constitutional framework of the country that ensures democratic institutional reforms that prevent future conflicts. This mandate was critical to ensuring that Kenya averts the commission of international crimes spelt out under the Rome Statute. The work culminated in the promulgation of the 2010 Constitution which under article 2(6) makes treaties, ratified by Kenya including Rome Statute, part of Kenyan law. As an Expert, I contributed to ensuring that Kenya's law engenders accountability for international crimes including crimes against humanity, genocide and war crimes. Ultimately, in line with article 2(6) the International Crimes Act was enacted by the Kenyan Parliament.

- Employer: African Union (AU)
- Post title: Member of Parliament for the Pan African (PAP)
- Other information:

As member of PAP, which is the AU's legislative body with oversight and consultative powers, I served in the Justice and Human Rights Committee and the Committee on Gender, Family, Youths and People with Disabilities. In this capacity I played a leading role in deliberations on reparations and management of conflict and its impact on displaced populations on the African continent, including the protection of victims of conflict-related violence, areas which are central to the ICC mandate under the Rome Statute.

- Employer: Parliament of Kenya
- Post title: Member of Parliament
- Other information:

As a member of Parliament, I was the mover of the motion adopted to ratify the International Conference on Great Lakes Region Protocol on the Prevention and Suppression of Sexual Violence Against Women and Children 2004. I was a mover of the Key human rights amendments to the Refugee Act 2004, and I was the architect and mover of the Sexual Offences Act 2006. This cemented the protection of gender-based violence victims and displaced persons in Kenya. Importantly, the process of working on these pieces of legislation strengthened my appreciation of evidentiary, procedural, and victim-centred approaches which are material in determination of matters related to violence against women, victim protection, and accountability for gender-based crimes. This is directly relevant to ICC's mandate and relates to the expertise underscored under article 36(8)(b) of the Rome Statute.

- Employer: African Union (Organisation of African Unity)
- Post title: Political Analyst (Human Rights & Governance), Conflict Management Centre
- Other information:

I was the lead and focal point for the drafting of the Protocol to the African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights on the Rights of Women in Africa (Maputo Protocol) and also for the drafting of the OAU/AU Convention Against Corruption. This mandate also entailed the assessment of preventive measures that are applicable for the protection of human rights in conflicts within the African Continent and the inclusion of rights-based approach in peace processes. This strengthened and enhanced my expertise in addressing gender-based violence, victim protection, and accountability for serious human rights violations in conflict situations. This position entailed the development of project priorities and strategies for the engagement of the African Union with civil society based organizations on rights-based approach to programming.

1997- 2000
- Employer:	Women in Law and Development in Africa (WiLDAF)
- Post title:	Sub-Regional Consultant for East Africa
- Other information:	This position entailed research, writing, and training on women rights in Africa. It also focused on advocacy and legal reform lobbying governments to ensure the protection of women's rights. In this capacity I supported the development of human rights approach in form of a manual and program for Operation Lifeline Sudan under UNICEF ESARO in relation to abductions, slavery, and child soldiers. I also conducted human rights training for refugees in camps for the UNHCR Kenya Office and advocacy on Women Sexual and Reproductive Rights for the Federation of Women Lawyers (FIDA). This work experience in addressing gender-based violence, child soldiers, abductions, and slavery aligns with the work and undertakings of the ICC.
- Employer:	UNHCR Branch Office Kenya
- Post title:	National Protection Officer
- Other information:	In this position, I undertook engagements related to protection law and status determination of refugees. I was also the lead for gender related protection concerns and supervised the outcome of the 'Women as victims of violence' project including the sensitization of judicial officers, refugee camps staff and residents on new approaches towards reducing the incidents of sexual violence. This was an important contribution to Kenya's capacity in protection matters as a key refugee-hosting state, [then estimated at over 500,000 refugees and displaced persons from Southern Sudan, Ethiopia, Somalia, Rwanda, Burundi and DRC]. Also, sensitizations were essential to strengthening of protection mechanisms within refugee camps and enhancement of gender-based violence and victims support. The engagements in refugee protection law, status determination, and training of judicial officers and camp staff on prevention of sexual violence demonstrates my expertise in victim protection and gender justice; areas that are particularly relevant under article 36(8)(b) of the Rome Statute.
- Employer:	Government of Kenya
- Post title:	State Counsel Office of the Attorney General (Director of Public Prosecutions Office)
- Other information:	As state counsel and criminal prosecutor, I undertook criminal litigation, including drafting of criminal charges, presentation of evidence in court, and the examination of witnesses. This work also included analyzing police files to determine sufficiency of evidence and guiding police and other related agencies on how to conduct criminal investigations. My caseload included prosecution of serious criminal offences, including capital cases, such as murder and robbery with violence and I represented the State in criminal and civil litigation from initiation up to appeal level. In this position I appeared before Magistrates' Courts, the High Court of Kenya, and the Court of Appeal of Kenya, which at the time was served as the apex court. This position offered me an opportunity to establish expert competence in criminal law and procedure. Further, I have substantial practical experience in criminal proceedings, rights of accused persons, evidentiary analysis, witness examination, adherence to due process, and appellate advocacy which is material under 36(3)(b)(i) of the Rome Statute.

(c) Information relating to article 36, paragraph 8 (a) (i) to (iii), shall be provided

This nomination would contribute to maintaining the balance between the principal legal systems of the world, insofar as it represents the system of civil law, as well as equitable geographical representation, insofar as it pertains to one of the States of Latin America and the Caribbean. Furthermore, the nomination of Dr. Olarte Bácares contributes to a fair representation of female and male judges, in accordance with article 36, paragraph 8 (a), of the Statute.

(d) It shall be indicated whether the candidate has any expertise under article 36, paragraph 8 (b), of the Statute

1. Experience in issues related with gender-based violence.

Dr. Olarte Bácares has a solid and proven background as a jurist with knowledge and experience in the area of gender-based violence. Over the course of her working life, she has participated in different interdisciplinary groups for the prevention, support and follow-up of cases of gender-based violence and discrimination. For example, the candidate participated in the drafting commission of the Pontifical Javierian University's Protocol for the prevention, support and follow-up of cases of violence and discrimination. These experiences allowed her to develop a specialized understanding and sensitivity with regard to gender-based violence, in their different manifestations and contexts, and also to identify their common structural character. Additionally, these experiences have strengthened her capacity to analyze each specific situation from the viewpoint of due-diligence standards, and to adopt approaches that are suited to the specificities of each case.

In her diplomatic activities, Dr. Olarte Bácares has consolidated this experience through active participation in multilateral and bilateral scenarios linked to international criminal justice, related to the prevention of sexual violence in armed conflicts and to the protection of populations in situations of special vulnerability. As of the implementation of Colombia's feminist foreign policy, she has both led and participated in conferences, round tables, and international campaigns intended to add visibility and raise awareness of violence against women and girls, and to fight it. Specifically, she has referred to feminicide as the expression of structural violence against women, and to the related role of States in the response to this phenomenon, in accordance with international standards on the matter. Throughout her professional life, Dr. Olarte Bácares has incorporated into her work cross-cutting approaches that recognize the distinct concerns that apply to particularly vulnerable populations, such as indigenous women, communities of African descent and LGBTIQ+ persons.

Furthermore, the candidate has integrated into her work an approach that acknowledges the differentiated impact of climate change on women and girls. In this regard, during her statement to the International Court of Justice on the obligations faced by States in the area of climate change, Dr. Olarte Bácares pointed out that the adverse effects of climate change do not follow a neutral pattern. On the contrary, they interact with patterns of structural discrimination that increase the disproportionate vulnerability of women and girls to climate change. In this context, on the basis of international evidence and of the Colombian case, Dr. Olarte Bácares has proven her capacity to approach complex phenomena from an integral human-rights perspective, incorporating criteria such as due diligence, climatic justice, and gender equality.

In particular, the candidate has analyzed in depth the fundamental role of women as leading agents in peace processes, acknowledging their contribution as leaders, builders of social tissue, and agents of institutional transformation. In this framework, she has divulged on an international level the Colombian experience in the area of restorative justice, especially in peace processes, which incorporates a gender perspective that is globally acknowledged.

Consistent with this trajectory is her participation as speaker and lecturer in several academic spaces, among them the following: "Building a Feminist Foreign Policy in Colombia: challenges and opportunities", in the Symposium & Workshop Experience and Voice: Library of Colombian Women Writers, organized by Leiden University (May 2024); "The Next Step: Shaping the Future of Inclusion: Advancing Gender Equity and Inclusion in a Shifting Political Climate", as keynote speaker in the Rise & Lead Summit & Awards 2025 (The Hague, September 2025); "Lessons learned from women activists in Colombia's peacebuilding process", in the Women & Peace Conference: In the footsteps of Bertha von Suttner, organized by the Alliance Française (The Hague, December 2025); and "Rethinking State Action: Colombia's Feminist Foreign Policy, structural violence, and new masculinities", in the framework of the launching of the book Taking Lives: Narratives of Latin American Femicide Perpetrators, at Leiden University (October 2025).

2. Human Rights and Businesses

In addition to her experience with gender violence-related issues, the candidate is a renowned expert in the area of businesses and human rights. Indeed, further to her ample academic production on the matter, her teaching and consulting activities reflect particular expertise in the individual responsibility of corporate actors. This dimension would be an adequate complement to the International Criminal Court's activity and perspectives, for example, as regards the consideration of alleged crimes related to environmental damages or cybercrimes contemplated in the Rome Statute that involve corporate actors. The expert knowledge that Dr. Olarte Bácares can contribute with regard to these issues is crucial, and would contribute significantly to the work of the Court.

(e) Where a candidate is a national of two or more States, indicate under which nationality the candidate is being nominated for the purposes of article 36, paragraph 7, of the Statute

The candidate is a national of two States, Colombia and Italy. For the purposes of this nomination and of article 36, paragraph 7, of the Statute, the candidate is being nominated under her Colombian nationality.

(f) Indicate whether the nomination is made under article 36, paragraph 4 (a) (i) or paragraph 4 (a) (ii), and specify in the necessary detail the elements of the procedure leading to the nomination

The Republic of Colombia submits the nomination of Dr. Olarte Bácares in strict compliance of the national procedure established for the nomination of judges to the International Criminal Court. This procedure is carried out pursuant to article 36, paragraph 4 (a) (ii), of the Rome Statute, by means of a thorough selection process carried out by the National Group of Colombia to the Permanent Court of Arbitration.

The National Group, chaired by Guillermo Fernández de Soto (former Minister of Foreign Affairs, permanent Representative of Colombia to the United Nations, Ambassador to the Kingdom of the Netherlands, Secretary-General of the Andean Community and Director for Europe of the Latin American Development Bank - ADF), received several nominations throughout 2025, which it analyzed in detail, concluding that, on the basis of her training, experience and outstanding professional record, Dr. Olarte Bácares's profile fulfilled all the requirements of the post. For the sake of transparency and impartiality, the candidate did not participate in any phase of the evaluation and nomination process.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs was advised of the procedure and of the nomination by means of a reasoned written communication, which it reviewed, certifying that the candidate fulfilled each of the requisites established in article 36, paragraph 3 (a), (b) (ii) and (c) of the Statute. Consequently, the nomination was formally approved and submitted by the National Government, pursuant to the stipulations of resolution ICC-ASP/3/Res.6.

In 2024, she was appointed Acting Special Adviser and Head of the Investigative Team to support domestic efforts to hold the Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant (Da'esh) accountable for international crimes committed in Iraq (UNITAD). She finalized criminal investigations relating to acts committed by ISIL (Da'esh) in Iraq that may amount to war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide. This procedure is carried out pursuant to article 36, paragraph 4 (a) (ii), of the Rome Statute, by means of a selection process conducted by the National Group of Spain in the Permanent Court of Arbitration.

The National Group, chaired by Ambassador Juan Antonio Yáñez-Barnuevo (former Permanent Representative of Spain to the United Nations and head of the Spanish delegation to the Rome Conference in 1998), examined many nominations, starting in early 2025. 2. Established competence and practical experience of criminal law and procedure, article 36(3)(a) and (b) of the Rome Statute.

Mr Seye has established competence and a proven track record in the fields of criminal law and procedure before the international courts and tribunals, complex investigations and the prosecution of international crimes, and also the protection and promotion of human rights.

- He has practised before the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (ICTR, 2001-2013), the ICC (since 2013) and the International Residual Mechanism for Criminal Tribunals (IRMCT, August 2020-

- He is currently a Senior Trial Lawyer at the ICC, where over the past thirteen years he has developed and demonstrated in-depth knowledge of the Rome Statute and of the rules of procedure, investigations and challenges to the functioning of the Court.
- He is the Head of the Unified Teams in the situation in the State of Palestine, and has led complex and sensitive investigations successfully and with determination, leading to the issuance of arrest warrants in this situation. He has also taken on responsibilities in other situations, including investigations leading to trials before the ICC, for example in the situation in the Republic of Mali.
- In 2020-2021 he headed the special multi-disciplinary team established by the Prosecutor of the IRMCT, which was responsible for the investigation and proceedings prior to the trial of Félicien Kabuga, the financier and mastermind behind the genocide in Rwanda in 1994.

As a Senior Trial Attorney in the Appeals Chamber, he also coordinated and/or managed several cases involving senior political and military figures, including the two generals and Chiefs of Staff of the Rwandan Army and the Gendarmerie Nationale (Ndindiliyimana et al.), the mayor of the Rwandan capital (Col. Renzaho), and also the senior officer responsible for the killing of the queen of the Tutsis (Capt. Nizeyimana), for the crimes they committed during the 1994 genocide.
- He is frequently called upon to participate in conferences and he has delivered a number of training courses on the investigation and prosecution of international crimes to judges, prosecutors and criminal police officers in several countries, in Africa in particular. 4. Specific fields of expertise tested in the context of investigations and trials before the international courts and tribunals, article 36(8)(b).

Mr Seye has proven skills and experience in various fields of criminal law and proceedings, including specific issues (article 36(8)(b)).

- He has extensive practical experience of international criminal law and of international criminal proceedings, as well as of the functioning of the international courts and tribunals, having practised before them without interruption for over twenty-five years, thirteen of those at the ICC.
- He has conducted investigations in highly complex and politically sensitive situations and has been involved in trials and appeals involving the prosecution of several political, military and civilian leaders for crimes of genocide, war crimes and crimes against humanity.
- He has heard dozens of vulnerable witnesses personally, including children and victims of sexual and gender-based violence and other traumatic crimes and violations in several situations. He has acquired experience and has developed and applied strategies and measures in this context to ensure the protection of victims and witnesses. These are a crucial aspect of investigations conducted in high-risk situations and vital to combat the impunity of perpetrators of international crimes.
- He has conducted investigations and/or pleaded in cases involving sexual and gender-based violence, and crimes against or involving children, committed specifically in Rwanda, Mali, and also in Israel and Palestine. He has delivered a number of training sessions on these specific issues in several countries, including “The specific treatment of sexual and gender-based violence in international criminal law” and “The specific treatment of crimes against minors in international criminal law”.
- He has also delivered several other training sessions on topics such as: “War crimes: sources and definitions”; “Challenges during the investigation phase for war crimes”; “Participation approaches in international criminal law”; “The responsibility of the superior (civilian and military)”; and “Documentation, investigations and the standard of proof for international crimes”.
- He has investigated cases involving the intimidation and corruption of witnesses, drafted the indictments pertaining thereto and presented and defended the selected charges at both the trial and appeals stages.

5. Selection and nomination procedure, article 36(4)(a)(ii)

In accordance with the provisions of article 36 of the Rome Statute, nominations for the position of judge at the ICC may be submitted by any State Party “(i) By the procedure for the nomination of candidates for appointment to the highest judicial offices in the State in question; or (ii) By the procedure provided for the nomination of candidates for the International Court of Justice in the Statute of that Court”.

Senegal has selected the first option, whereby Senegalese nominees are appointed to the highest judicial office in Senegal in accordance with the nomination procedure.

To nominate Senegal’s candidate for the elections to be held at the next session of the Assembly of States Parties (ASP) in December 2026, the Ministry of Justice issued a public call for applications and established a national committee for candidacies consisting of representatives from the ministries responsible for Foreign Affairs, Justice, the Interior and Universities. The committee received eight applications.

Following a selection procedure, Mr Abdoulaye Seye, Senior Trial Lawyer at the ICC, was selected in view of his high moral character and intellectual capacities, his probity and his professional experience at the international criminal tribunals and courts.

His nomination was then forwarded to the Secretariat of the Assembly of States Parties by the Government of Senegal via our diplomatic representation in The Hague.

6. Undertaking and availability for interview

Mr Seye undertakes to make himself available to the advisory committee on nominations of judges for interview in person, by video-conference or similar means, and also for any public round tables.
