[with Prof. Jean-Vincent Holeindre]; Formerly Deputy Director and in charge of the section “Foreign Legal Policy” (2010-2018)

The AFRI is an academic yearbook of International Relations; It deals with international affairs using an all-encompassing scope, including politics, strategy, economy, culture, technology, etc.; Thanks to its multidisciplinary approach, it brings together the scholarship of French or international practitioners, diplomats and experts; All papers go through a double-blind peer-review process under the supervision of an interdisciplinary Editorial Board ; Publication rewarded in 2008 by the Institut de France

- 2019-2023 Coordinator of the research project “Refwar” on the protection of war-fleeing refugees in France, founded by the French national agency for research (ANR)

The Refwar Project focuses on the protection, in France, of those who were forced into exile by an armed conflict in their country of nationality or usual residence. It aims at spotlighting one of the main aspects of modern forced migrations by assessing applicable legal instruments (field investigation), by offering a continual analysis of the situation of war-fleeing refugees in France (publications, website with regular reports and jurisprudence review), by improving the training of involved actors (creation of a specialised degree and a law clinic), and by suggesting evolutions for refugee law (with, for instance, the establishment of a new protective status based on humanitarian grounds)

In cooperation with Université de Reims (Prof. Alexis Marie), Université de Versailles (Prof. Thibault Fleury Graff) and the UNHCR Representation in France (Caroline Laly-Chevalier)

Duration: 42 months – Budget: € 250,000 – www.refwar.fr
